Portland Fish Notes.

Rather discouraged by the poor success made in their fishing operations the past few weeks the skippers of the fishing steamers Pet and Elthier have tied up their boats at Central wharf and will stay there until the fish show up again.

The well known coasting schooner Grace E. Stevens, which has for years been employed as a packet between Portland and eastern ports, is now on a new route, having come in here Thursday with a cargo of dry fish taken on at Beaver Harbor, N. B., and bound to Gloucester.

USE TRAWLERS TO BUCK ENGLAND

A London dispatch says:

The government is being urged to take drastic action against the crews of trawlers which fly a neutral flag but co-operate with German submarines in attacks on British warships. Every submarine success gained by the Germans has been secured largely because they have used a trawler mother ship to locate the British cruisers and to mask the approach of the submarine. This was true in the attack on the Hogue, Aboukir and Cressy and on the Hawke, and true also in an unsuccessful attack on a German submarine on the Russian warship Admiral Makaroff. A well known periodical offers the following comment:

Of itself a submarine is a species of intelligent floating mine, its speed and visual ability both of low order. The real danger lies in the German habit of using a trawler mother ship flying a neutral flag. Each German trawler has been thus secured, the trawler acting as the brain. Obviously, then, the first thing to be done is to devise ways and means of dealing with the brain. We should be well within our rights if we gave it clearly to be understood that the crews of all vessels assisting enemy submarines under the neutral flag would be hanged as pirates. The percentage of men who will face in cold blood the chance of being hanged is small."

Change of Skippers.

Capt. William Anderson will command sch. Manomet in the shore hauling fishery for a few weeks while Capt. William Price engages in mackerel dragging in a smaller boat.

Fishing Fleet Movements.

Sch. Manhasset and Flora L. Oliver were at Liverpool, N. S., Tuesday and cleared.

CAPT. HICKEY DOING WELL

Capt. John Hickey's new schooner Reading, in commission one month, has stocked over $5200 and the crew shared $110 each. This makes a good month's work. Capt. Hickey is engaged in the fresh haddock fishery, landing a trip about once a week. The vessel looks like a money maker and the captain's friends wish him continued good fortune.

ANOTHER CARGO ARRIVES FROM N.F.

Sch. Senator Only Off Shore Craft at This Port Today.

The only off shore arrival here since Saturday is the sch. Senator, Capt. Axel Laager from Bay of Islands, N. F., with a cargo of salt and pickled herring for the Gorton-Pew Fisheries Company. The Senator is the third arrival of the Newfoundlanders to date.

The mackerel draggers were in abundance here yesterday morning brought in some large fares.

Saturday and Sunday's gill netting receipts were up to the usual, averaging from 90 to 95 per cent. pollock. The splitters took the majority of the fares.

CANADA AND THE FISH QUESTION

The recent announcement that the government will investigate the fishery resources of Hudson Bay, is a reminder of the curious fact that Canadians attach but little importance to fish as a foodstuff. A noted statistician pointed out some time ago that while Canada possessed the most extensive fisheries in the world, Canadians consumed less fish than most of the nations in either Europe or America. While the cost of living is higher and higher at a truly appalling rate and the supply of the products of the farm fall far below the consumers' demand, millions of dollars worth of fish is being exported from the country to furnish the very best and cheapest food for other nations of the globe. Nearly $25,000,000 is invested in the Canadian fishing industry last year the value of the catch well over $35,000,000. A very large deal of this was exported to other countries.

That we are not more given to the use of fish as a foodstuff is a fact more curious in the light of the fact that the English, Irish and Scotch are famous as the great fish consumers of the world. Last year the value of fish landed in England and Wales amounted to 10,337,000 pounds, and it is estimated that more than two-thirds of the entire catch was consumed by the people of the United Kingdom. The fact that the fish industry is one of the most important to the people of the United Kingdom is a fact that is giving much food for thought to the people of the United States.

the future as well as to the high cost of living, unerringly point to Canada's fishery resources as the sustainer of the people in the years to come.

Perhaps Canadians can become educated to the more frequent use of fish on the dinner table. The difficulty in getting fresh fish to points in the interior, has no doubt been responsible for its very slight use in other than the Maritime Provinces. Lately the government has been giving consideration to this phase of the matter, and a refrigerator express service from the sea to inland points has been inaugurated. Working along the same lines, fishery exhibits have been arranged at the various big exhibitions throughout the Dominion, a fisheries museum has been established, a fisheries advisory board has been created and the fish-breeding service reorganized.

Much remains to be done, that a truly wonderful heritage may be conserved. Germany with her usual foresight has started a campaign to popularize sea fish as food and German fisheries are now subsidized by the state. As time goes by and the demand for the products of the farm becomes far greater than the supply, fish as a Canadian foodstuff will gradually become more popular. Hence the importance of the government taking an active interest in our fisheries and seeing to it that fishermen be not allowed to rake out the riches of the seas with little knowledge of how much is left, thus risking the exhaustion in no distant future of what undoubtedly will become one of the greatest of our food supplies.—Toronto Globe.

GRAMPUS BEGINS EGG COLLECTING

A busy season is ahead for the United States Fish Commission sch. Grampus at this port, Capt. Gustaf F. O. Hanson and crew of 14 men having started operations in collecting cod and pollock eggs from the gill netting steamers which fish out of here each day. The men are placed aboard the different steamers and a large amount of spawn mostly pollock is being collected each day. The commission's steamer Blue Wing is assisting in the work as in other years. The collections are turned over to the government hatchery at Ten Pound Island.

Booth Company Takes Fish.
The British sch. Gordon M. Hollett is discharging part of her cargo at the Booth Fisheries Company.

Found Dead In His Dory.
Capt. Joseph W. Nickerson, of South Chatham, Mass., was found dead in the bottom of his dory when it washed up on the beach there recently. The discovery was made by Surfman Robert Robbins, of the Monomoy Point lifesaving station. Capt. Nickerson, it is believed, was seized with an attack of heart failure Sunday while out fishing.

NETTERS LANDED SOME BIG FARES

Small Boats and Dorries Arriving Yesterday Forenoon Were Loaded to the Scuppers in Best Night's Fishing of the Season.

The mackerel draggers had the best night of the season, Saturday; all the boats that were out taking fish. Some large catches were made, the highest being the Rockport sloop Marguerite S. McKenzie, which had 6000 fish in count.

The little boats that came in here yesterday morning were loaded. There was no real rush for the fish but during the day, the fares were disposed of and three of Reed's auto trucks took 84 barrels to Boston shortly before midnight for this morning's market.

FISHERMEN SIGHT ABANDONED SLOOP Capt. Axel Laager and Boat Fishermen Have Seen It Recently.

Capt. Axel Laager of sch. Senator which arrived here yesterday from Bay of Islands, N. F., with a cargo of herring, reports that Saturday night while off the Isle of Shoals, he sighted a sloop about 30 feet long drifting about with the wind and sea.

Owing to the heavy wind and because he was anxious to make port, Capt. Laager did not stop to examine the sloop, but continued on the way to this port.

This sloop is probably the one that has been seen many times in the past few days by the fishermen going from here. Police Officer Henry W. Brown, while out in the bay last Thursday, sighted the sloop but was unable to get near it. He reports that the stern and bowsprit were broken off and that it was drifting around helplessly. It may be that the craft has broken from her moorings from some place along the shore and drifted out to sea. There is no report of a missing craft of this description.

AWARD CONTRACT FOR BREAKWATER

The contract for the new breakwater to be built off the fish pier, South Boston, has been awarded by the port directors to W. H. Ellis & Sons of East Boston. Work will be commenced within a few days.

The sea wall will start at a point on Northern avenue, just beyond the end of the administration building of the Boston Fish Market Corporation to and about 500 feet south of the fish pier. For 1100 feet it will parallel the pier and at that point curve for about 200 feet to the north and end there, making its total length about 1300 feet. The approximate cost will be $20,000. A time limit of four months is given for its construction.

FANCY SHARES FOR HADDOCKERS

There is money in fresh haddock, as Capt. Enos Nickerson and others of the high line fleet are demonstrating just about now. Sch. Frances S. Grueby, Capt. Nickerson's trim craft, added $2100 more to her already big season's work on her recent trip, just landed, the crew sharing $60 clear for their six day's work. In five trips, landed in as many weeks, the net share has been $240 clear.

Other nice shares made recently are schs. Virginia, Capt. James Dwyer, five days, $35; Pontiac, Capt. Ernest Parsons, six days, $44.

GEEL STOCKED NEAR $15,000

Sch Tattler, Capt. Alden Geel on her recent dory handline trip weighed out 379,223 pounds of salt cod from which the stock was $14,832.38. The high line share was $320.23 and the average share was $238.11. The Tattler carried 24 men. The actual number of fish caught was 262,737.

STORM HELD UP THE DRAGGERS

The draggers did but little yesterday, on account of the storm the night before, and the landings were consequently small.

At Rockport the power dorries brought in a few, averaging from 40 to 300 to a boat. John Nelson landed 300 fresh mackerel Sunday and yesterday, only 40. Yesterday's receipts aggregated about 400 fish.
